

Holland era ends at Y

UNIVERSE OPINION

At Saturday afternoon's session of General Conference of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, BYU President Jeffrey R. Holland received a call to be a member of the Church's First Quorum of Seventy.

The Daily Universe feels the Church's gain is BYU's loss. Yet, the title Elder Holland sounds as if we've been hearing it for years. That's the kind of man he has been.

Since Aug. 1, 1980, his wit and wisdom have guided BYU through an important time of change.

While universities throughout the state complained about declining funds, President Holland's "Excellence in the '80s" campaign exceeded its projections.

While the university's size became a less-important focus, Holland tried for quality, and we feel he has achieved much he desired.

Not that he didn't work to expand facilities. His most significant contribution in this vein was his tireless effort to construct the BYU Jerusalem Center.

But President Holland's contribution was more than just buildings and education. He and his wife, Patricia, took the job of being parents to some 27,000 students very seriously. We believe he had more than his share of sleepless nights.

He worked to remember numerous names and faces. Each semester's "Pat and Jeff Show," as many students called it, inspired us. Few can forget their deft jokes.

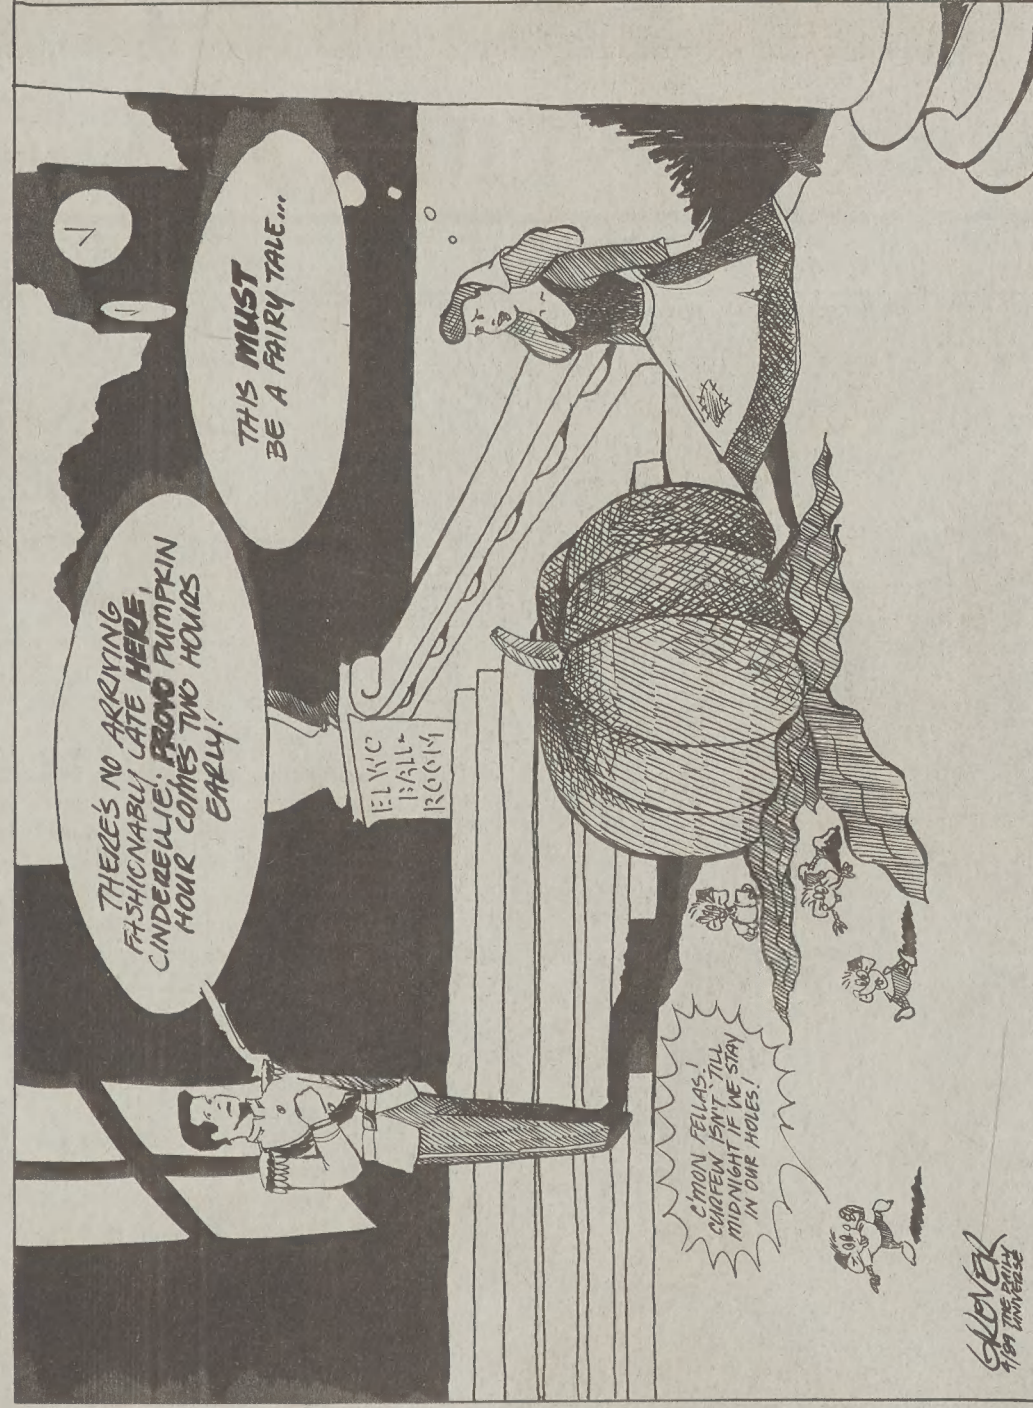

Few can forget, for example, the time the pair talked with humor and insight about the joy and challenge of marriage. Their successors will have big shoes to fill.

Further, there were the numerous times he opened his home to student groups and the numerous times he gave up his Sunday evenings to speak at firesides for the BYU stakes.

President Holland, The Daily Universe feels it can speak for thousands of the youth of Zion: "God bless you, Elder Holland, and thank you for all you did. Thank you for all the sleepless nights."

This editorial is the opinion of the Daily Universe Editorial Board, which is comprised of the associate publisher, editor, opinion page editor, a teacher of opinion writing and a student staff member.

Daily Universe Opinions are not necessarily those of Brigham Young University, its administration or sponsoring church. The Editorial Board meetings are every Tuesday at 11 a.m. in 511 ELWC. If there is a forum or devotional the meeting will be at 10 a.m.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Blind followers

Dear Editor
I am writing in response to the March 30 letter by Elizabeth Shepherd.

She stated that many people in the Church accept counsel from Church leaders blindly, assuming that it is right for everyone.

She cited the Prophet's counsel not to see R-rated movies as an example of counsel not necessarily right for everyone.

If you sit down with any follower of the counsel of our Church leaders, you will find that almost without exception, those people have given the counsel solemn consideration and are far from blind, but have vision that following the counsel will help their lives to be happier.

I think that looking at the blessings of following the counsel of Church leaders instead of looking at them with an attitude of what they will keep us from doing will help us to understand that the counsel is beneficial.

R-rated movies are no exception, and they should be looked at with this same perspective. There are things in many movies of different ratings that make them detrimental to us. Anything in a movie that makes it receive an R-rating is detrimental.

I am not condemning those who choose to view R-rated films, just trying to shed some light on why Church leaders may have counseled us not to view them.

I would also ask those who view the films that they would refrain from blanket statements and assumptions about those who choose not to.

Women's issues

Dear Editor:
I wrote earlier concerning an article covering the Committee to Promote the Status of Women (March 16). I am writing again because I feel that this is an important issue for this university and you, the editor, should address it.

I am concerned that this organization claims to "promote" all women. Even if I am only one, they do not stand for me and I certainly do not want to be associated with them.

The members of this committee criticize the organization of our government, schools and families. They define patriarchy as the domination of women by men.

I disagree. Patriarchy, specifically the patriarchal order, is used to organize my family and many other good families. This divine order is also used to administer the Gospel. The patriarchal order is correct and good. It is not a tool to degrade women, nor does it make women lower-class citizens in the Kingdom of God. The patriarchal order is an organizing principle.

There is a great deal of confusion concerning this pseudo-women's issue here at BYU.

I would like to read your comments, editor.

Birch Society

Dear Editor:
I read with interest Ann and Craig Williams' letter in defense of the John Birch Society. A few facts must be pointed out in response.

To label the JBS as an "educational organization" is laughable. If their views are any indication of what "education" is all about, I want no part of it. Their politics are paranoid at best.

Recently, after hearing the announcement that Marriott Corporation would begin servicing Aeroflot, a local JBS member opined that J.W. Marriott should be hanged for "aiding and abetting the enemy," and no, he wasn't speaking in jest. The JBS is vehemently opposed to building international understanding.

I find it interesting that President Benson's "support" of the JBS has not been vocalized in any way since he became president of the Church.

Since the statement that Williams quoted was from 1966, who knows if he still feels that way.

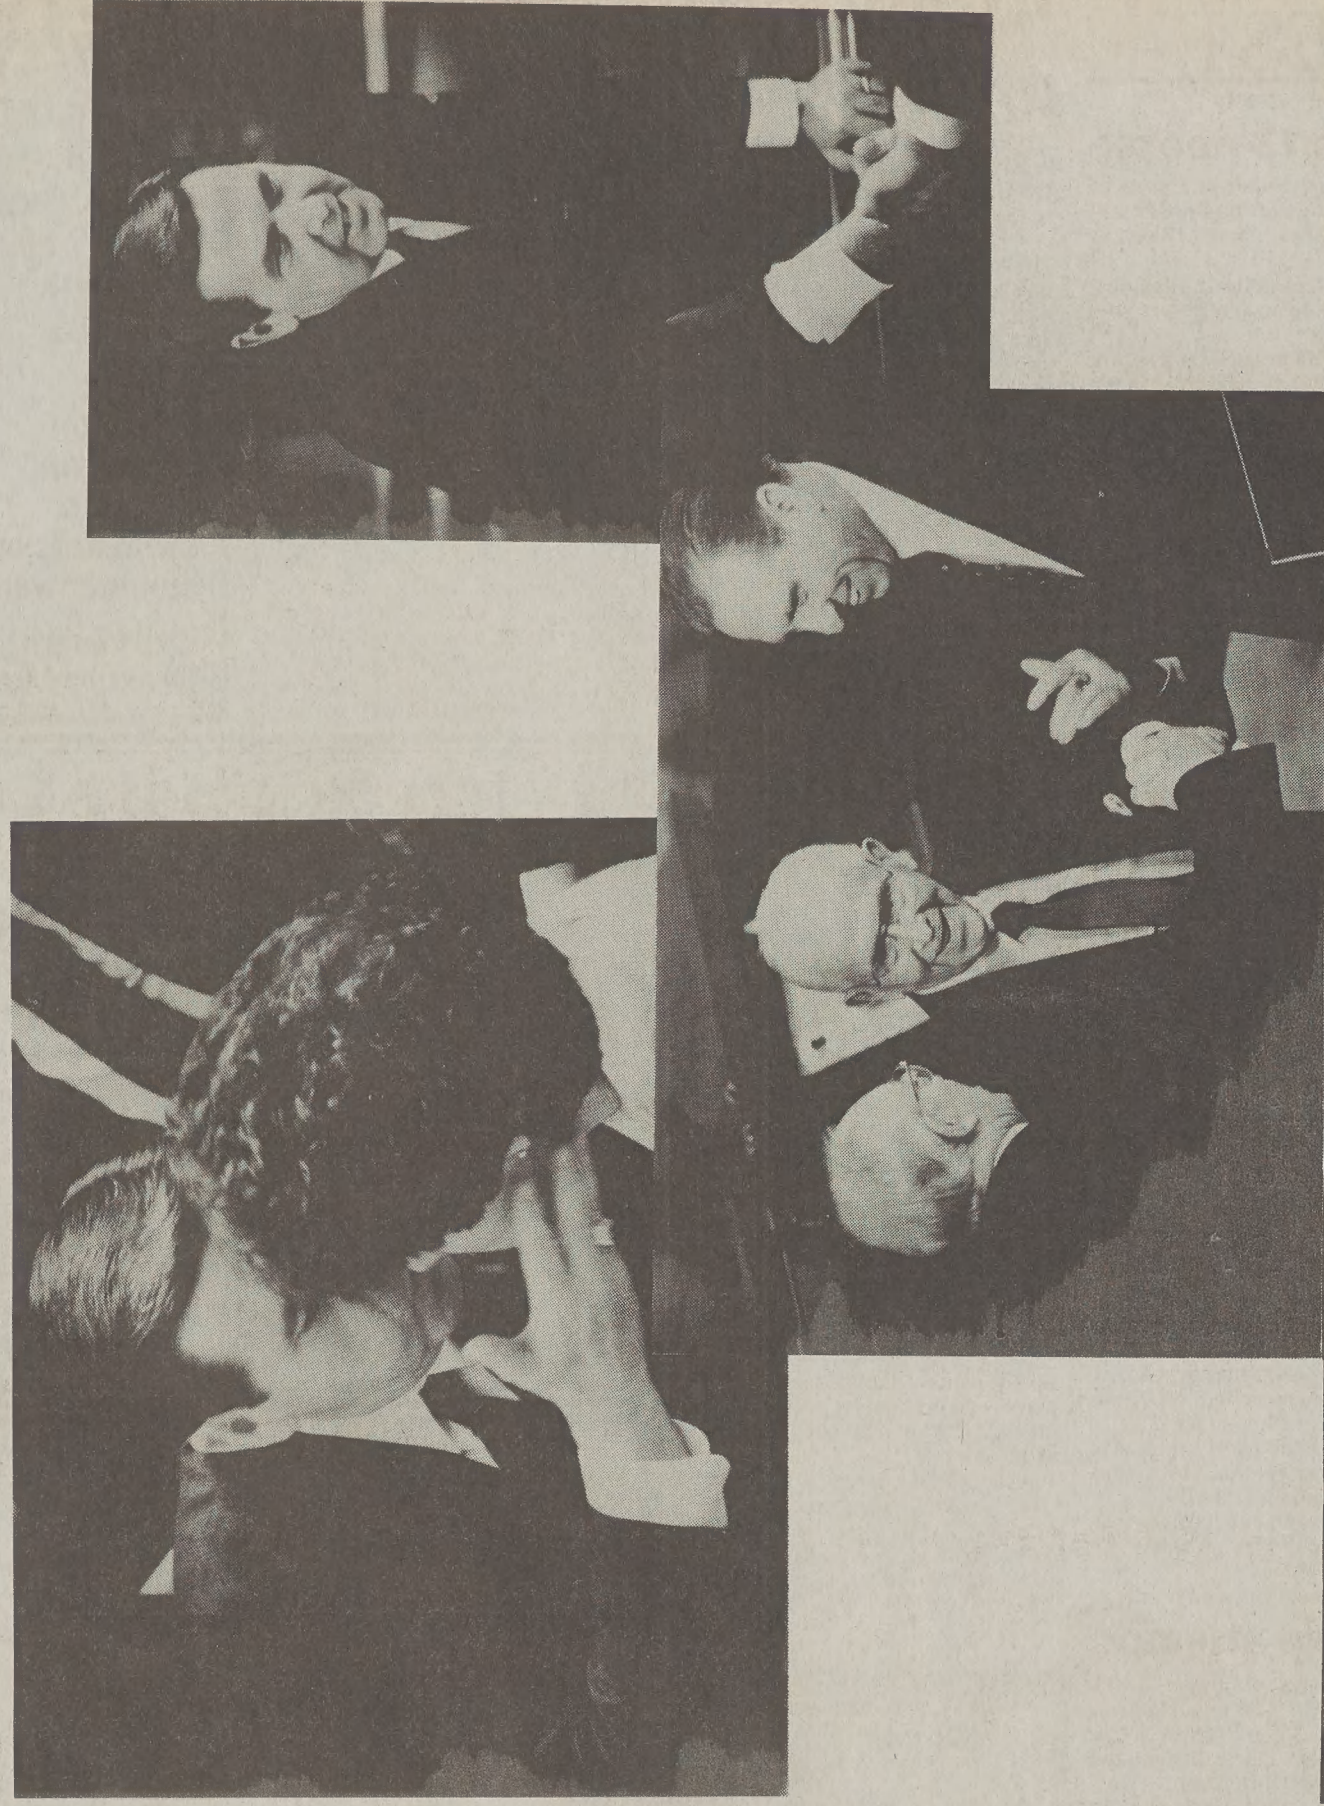

Perhaps he would agree with Brigham Young, who said "Let men turn from their iniquities and sins, and instead of being covetous and wicked, turn to God and seek to promote peace and happiness throughout the land, and wars would cease." (Journal of Discourses 18:49)

Perhaps the words of our Savior Jesus Christ would be wise to Ann and Craig Williams and other JBS members: "Go and do thou likewise."

Pres. Holland called to Quorum of Seventy

By LAURA F. JONES
and LISA ANNE FULLER
Universe Staff Writers

President Jeffrey R. Holland, a new member of the First Quorum of the Seventy, said he was stunned at receiving the call.

President Holland, who was sustained at the Saturday afternoon session of the 158th semiannual General Conference of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, said he and his wife, Sister Patricia Holland, are anxious to do whatever they can and look forward to whatever service they are assigned.

One of the most difficult moments he experienced Saturday was "when the BYU combined choirs started to sing. My wife and I both started to weep," President Holland said. "It was just moments later that I was announced and the significance for me of having the BYU choirs singing in the conference where I was sustained just meant a great deal," he said.

President Holland has not yet been officially released as president of BYU, but Stohilton said, "Transitions are usually smooth in the Church, and the university is part of the Church."

President Holland served as president of BYU for almost nine years. Prior to that he was commissioner of the Church Education System for four years and Dean of Religious Education at BYU for two years.

speculate that finding a new president would be addressed Tuesday at the regular monthly Executive Committee Meeting of the Board of Trustees.

When Elder Dallin H. Oaks announced his release as university president in 1980, President Holland's appointment came within the week.

BYU Executive Vice President John Stohilton said, "Transitions are usually smooth in the Church, and the university is part of the Church."

The change will be difficult, a tearful Stohilton said. "We have such a great love for him and a great appreciation for all he has done. I think we're all going to miss him."

In a sense, it will be a relief to pass on the responsibilities of BYU, President Holland said. At BYU, people feel, rightly or wrongly, that everything is the responsibility of the president.

However, he added, "We've had wonderful support, absolutely we couldn't have asked for greater support than we had."

Stohilton said "Change" is part of life and part of the gospel. "We're used to change, but that doesn't make it any easier."

NEWS DIGEST

Artillery duel in Beirut kills 13 people

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Shellfire hit Beirut's airport Sunday, and radio reports said the home of the U.S. ambassador was struck during fierce duels between Syrian gunners and Christian army units. Police reported 13 people were killed.

Thunderous explosions rocked Beirut in what authorities called the heaviest artillery duel since renewed fighting in the 14-year-old civil war erupted March 8.

Syrian and allied Druse gunners poured more than 8,000 rounds, at a rate of up to 100 per minute, on east Beirut and the Christian suburbs northeast of the city in 24 hours, a police spokesman said.

Christian soldiers of army commander Gen. Michel Aoun struck back with 155mm howitzers, firing at least 3,000 rounds on Syrian positions in Moslem west Beirut, the central mountains and east Lebanon's Bekaa valley, the spokesman said.

He said Christian gunners also blasted the Beirut-Damascus highway in the mountainous Dahr al-Baidar region in an apparent bid to block the way of Syrian tanks poised to roll into Beirut.

The spokesman said eight people were killed and 20 wounded in the Christian side and five killed and seven wounded in Moslem west Beirut. The confrontation has exacerbated a political crisis that created competing Christian and Moslem governments and split the army on sectarian lines.

Court decision could alter Utah tax law

SALT LAKE CITY — A state tax official says a U.S. Supreme Court decision last week could force changes in Utah's law providing different income tax treatment for federal and state pension income.

The high court, on an 8-1 vote, struck down a Michigan law permitting taxation of federal pension income, but exempting retirement benefits for state and local government workers. "It appears Utah is doing much the same thing as Michigan, so there are perhaps changes ahead in the tax law for this state," said Hal Hansen, Utah Tax Commission chairman.

Under the Michigan law, federal pensioners faced the same state tax liability as private industry retirees. They are allowed a deduction of up to $7,500 in retirement income from state taxes. But there is no taxation applied to state and local government retirement income.

The Michigan law "violates principles of intergovernmental tax immunity by favoring retired state and local government employees over retired federal employees," Justice Anthony M. Kennedy wrote for the court majority.

Exxon Valdez captain admits to drinking

VALDEZ, Alaska — The captain of the Exxon Valdez admitted drinking on board the tanker before it rammed a reef, investigators allege.

When the first investigator on the scene of the nation's worst-ever oil spill boarded the vessel and asked Capt. Joseph Hazelwood what the problem was, he replied, "I think you're looking at it," according to court documents.

The documents were filed in support of an arrest warrant issued for the captain Friday on state misdemeanor charges of operating a ship while under the influence of alcohol, reckless endangerment and negligent discharge of oil.

Hazelwood remained at large Sunday as investigators continued to look for the cause of the spill, which now covers an area the size of Rhode Island.

The animal-rescue effort quickened as authorities kept an eye on a plume of oil headed for salmon fisheries and a national park more than 100 miles southwest of the accident site in once-pristine Prince William Sound.

Scientists and fishermen brought in oil-smeared otters in everything from airline dog cages to boxes hurriedly hammered together from plywood and chicken wire.

A refrigerated trailer truck served as a morgue for dead otters and birds.

Haiti soldiers foil military coup attempt

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — Shooting broke out early Sunday near the presidential palace, and a source close to the government said loyal soldiers had foiled an attempt to overthrow the government of Lt. Gen. Prosper Avril.

A few hours earlier, sources in Haiti said military commanders had ousted the 6-month-old government. It would have been the third coup in this Caribbean country in less than a year. There was no way to immediately confirm any of the reports, which came four days after four top army officers were discharged after being accused of drug trafficking.

Haiti's international airport was closed, a move taken after previous coups, and large numbers of soldiers were at the palace and on the streets.

State-run radio and television continued regular programming and made no mention of a coup several hours after the initial reports of shooting.

Susan Clyde, spokeswoman for the U.S. Embassy in Haiti, said there were "reports that there has been a change of government," but that the capital of Port-au-Prince appeared calm.

Gorbachev meets with leader in Ireland

SHANNON, Ireland — In a brief stop Sunday en route to Cuba, Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev held a "shamrock and sickle summit" with Prime Minister Charles Haughey, who suggested the next U.S.-Soviet summit be held in Ireland.

Gorbachev's two-hour stop to the politically neutral, staunchly Roman Catholic country was the first by a Kremlin leader. The blue and white Aeroflot jetliner touched down at Shannon International Airport on the west coast of Ireland, and Gorbachev talked for nearly an hour with Haughey.

"Ireland is not a stopover but a milestone," Gorbachev said on arrival.

From Ireland, Gorbachev flew to communist Cuba in his first overseas trip since a U.S. visit in December. He then comes back across the Atlantic for a visit to Britain. Gorbachev will be in Cuba through Wednesday for meetings with President Fidel Castro. In London, he will hold talks Thursday with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, address financial and business leaders Friday, and lunch with Queen Elizabeth II.

Announcement stuns university officials

By SHANNON STOWELL and SCOTT H. WAITE
Universe Staff Writer

In an announcement that surprised and shocked many university officials and BYUSA representatives, the First Presidency of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints called President Jeffrey R. Holland to the First Quorum of the Seventy.

The calling came during the Saturday afternoon session of General Conference. President Thomas S. Monson, second counselor in the First Presidency of the LDS Church, made the announcement.

John B. Stohilton, executive vice-president of BYU, said the announcement came as "no stunning shock." He said, "I think it's both an exciting thing for the president and a little bit of a scary thing for the university. I'm sure sorry to see him go."

Provost and Academic Vice-President Jae R. Ballif said, "There are two things I would say in response to this event. The first is surprise, not at his being called, but that he was called at this time."

"He is a remarkable and inspired man who will be a great blessing to the entire Church,"

Eliot A. Butler, associate academic vice-president said, "(President Holland) has a great spirit and great understanding of the Gospel and will be a great benefit to the Church."

"He has a great ability to speak with clarity in a very moving way that reaches out to the audience," said Butler.

Associate Academic Vice-President F. LaMond Tullis said, "I know of none other more qualified by temperament and experience, and none for whom I could give more enthusiastic support."

"I believe his ministry will be exceptionally consequential in the lives of many people; and I am therefore happy for him and for the Church," he said.

Bruce Hafen, president of the J. Reuben Clark Law School, said, "I am really sad at the thought of BYU losing President Holland. He's been a wonderful president, and if I had my way he'd stay here at the university.

"Both he and Sister Holland represent and embody so well all that BYU stands for and aspires to be," said Hafen.

"We love him and will miss him," said Steve Houghton, the senior class president. "He's been a wonderful asset to the university. As I worked with him over the past year, although it's been on a limited basis, I've been so overwhelmed by his genuine concern for students at this university."

Houghton, making reference to last Thursday's alumni board meeting, said, "He was just overcome with emotion for this university and its goals. It's been wonderful to see this side of him, as I've worked more closely with him this year."

Mark Crockett, the president of BYUSA, said, "It sounds like a wonderful thing for the university. I'm sure sorry to see him go."

LDS Church announces new quorum

Second quorum organized because of rapid growth organization of the Second Quorum of the Seventy was announced at the Saturday afternoon session of the General Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Twelve new general authorities were called on Saturday, four to the First Quorum of the Seventy and eight to the Second Quorum of the Seventy.

President Thomas S. Monson, second counselor in the First Presidency, announced that the First Presidency and the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles decided to organize the quorums because of the Church's rapid growth.

Members of the First Quorum of the Seventy are Jeffrey R. Holland, president of BYU; Joe J. Christensen, president of Ricks College; Eugene Hansen, chairman of the State Board of Regents; and John K. Jensen, an attorney in private practice.

The current presidency of the First Quorum of the Seventy will serve as presidents of both quorums, President Monson said.

Members of the Seventy are Elder Dean L. Larson, Marion D. Jensen, Wm. Grant Bangerter, and L. Backman, Hugh W. Pinnock, James M. Paramore and J. Richard Clarke.

Membership in the First Quorum of the Seventy is for life; however, calls to the Second Quorum of the Seventy are for five years, with the options of the call being renewed or being called to the First Quorum, according to Jerry P. Cahill, LDS Church spokesman.

In addition to the eight newly called members, the Second Quorum is made up of 28 of the men most recently called to the First Quorum of the Seventy.

The eight new members are Carlos Amado, area director of the Church Educational System for Guatemala City, Guatemala; and Benjamin Berry Banks, president of the Scotland, Edinburgh mission.

Other new members include Spencer J. Condie, a professor of sociology at BYU; Richard P. Lindsay, managing director of the LDS Church Public Communications/Special Affairs Department; Floyd Melvin Hammond, a professor of religion at Ricks College; Malcolm Seth Jeppsen, a physician; Merlin Rex Lybbert, an attorney; and Horacio Antonio Tenorio, a business consultant.

Additional members will be called to the Second Quorum of the Seventy from time to time, President Monson said.

Duties of the Seventies are "administering the affairs of the worldwide Church under the direction of the First Presidency and Quorum of the Twelve.

Some serve as executive directors of departments at Church headquarters and others are assigned as members of area presidencies responsible for Church administration," according to a press release from Church Public Communications.

Other members of the Second Quorum of the Seventy who were already serving as general authorities are Elders H. Verlan Andersen, Monte J. Brough, Waldo P. Call, George I. Cannon, Helio Da Rocha Camargo, Albert Choules Jr. and Lloyd P. George.

Other transferred members are Francis M. Gibbons, Robert B. Harbertson, Devere Harris, George R. Hill III, F. Arthur Kay, L. Lionel Kendrick, John R. Lasater, Douglas J. Martin and Gerald E. Melchin.

The new Quorum also includes Alexander B. Morrison, Spencer H. Osborn, L. Aldin Porter, Glen L. Rudd, Gardner H. Russell, Robert E. Sackley, Douglas H. Smith, Philip T. Sonntag, John Sonnenberg, Lynn A. Sorensen, Russell C. Taylor and Keith W. Wilcox.

Current members of the First Quorum of the Seventy are Elders Angel Abrea, Carlos E. Asay, William R. Bradford, Ted E. Brewerton, Victor L. Brown, Theodore M. Burton, F. Enzo Busch, John K. Carmack, Gene R. Cook, Derek A. Cuthbert, Royden G. Derrick, Jack H. Goaslind, F. Burton Howard and Jacob de Jager.

Also in the First Quorum of the Seventy are Charles Didier, Loren C. Dunn, Paul H. Dunn, Vaughn J. Featherstone, J. Thomas Fyans, John H. Groberg, Yoshihiko Kikuchi, Adney Y. Komatsu, George P. Lee, H. Burke Peterson, Rex D. Pinegar, Ronald E. Poelman, Hartman Rector Jr., Rex C. Reeve, Hans B. Ringger, Robert L. Simpson and Robert E. Wells.

Prophet urges LDS children to honor parents

Continue to study the Book of Mormon and pray, says Pres. Benson

Speaking specifically to the children of members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, President Ezra Taft Benson urged them to continue studying the Book of Mormon, Another Testament of Jesus Christ, and to pray and to honor their parents.

President Thomas S. Monson, second counselor in the First Presidency, read President Benson's talk during the Sunday afternoon session. "I know you are reading the Book of Mormon for I have received hundreds of personal letters from you telling me that you are reading this sacred book," President Benson said. "It makes me weep, weep for joy when I hear this."

He told children that in addition to reading the scriptures, "there are other important things Heavenly Father wants you to do. He wants you to pray to him every day."

In addition to prayer, President Benson said honoring parents will help children make good decisions.

A video clip was presented after President Benson's talk titled "I Am a Mormon Boy."

Elder Russell M. Nelson

Elder Nelson, a member of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles, told Church members to avoid contention.

"As we dread any disease that undermines the health of the body, so should we deplore contention, which is a corroding canker of the spirit," he said.

Elder Nelson said to be wary of encouraging contention in families, the workplace, in the Church and in all other aspects of life. "How divisive is the force of dissension. Small acts can lead to such great consequences," he said. "Regardless of position or situation, no one can safely assume immunity to contention's terrible toll."

Elder M. Russell Ballard

Preventing the harmful influences of television in the home was addressed by Elder Ballard of the Quorum of the Twelve.

"We should strive to change the corrupt and immoral tendencies in television and in society by keeping things that offend and debase out of our homes," Elder Ballard said. "Members of the Church need to influence more than we are influenced."

He told families to carefully select the programs they watch and to minimize time spent viewing. "I leave you my testimony that we have only one sure way to secure our homes and our families, and that is through learning and living the principles of the gospel of Jesus Christ," Elder Ballard said.

Elder F. Enzo Busche

The blessings of the temple can help Church members learn honesty, said Elder Busche, a member of the First Quorum of the Seventy.

"My dear brothers and sisters, I know of no better place where we can grow in understanding of the principles of honesty than in the house of the Lord," he said. Busche said the temple is the only university where men can prepare spiritually for their graduation to eternal life. He said the Lord wants members to make "a sincere evaluation of our mortal lives" when in the temple.

"We ourselves and the Lord are the only ones who really know us," Elder Busche said. "We do not even know ourselves unless we have learned to walk the lonely and most challenging road toward self-honesty as constantly guided by the spirit."

Elder Royden G. Derrick

Elder Derrick, a member of the First Quorum of the Seventy, outlined a pathway to perfection.

"Jesus showed us the way," he said.

"Its simplicity is encompassed in the beatitudes where he taught, 'blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.'" Elder Derrick said that when Christ repeated the Sermon on the Mount in Ancient America, he added the words "who come unto me." Coming unto Christ is the first step to perfection, Elder Derrick said. He outlined seven other steps found in the beatitudes.

Joy F. Evans

Engaging in compassionate service is pleasing to God, said Joy F. Evans, first counselor in the General Relief Society Presidency.

"Having compassion on those who are hurting for whatever reason and then translating the response of the heart into the needed act is truly ministering as God would have us do," she said.

Pres. Benson warns members to avoid sin of pride

KENNETH S. ROGERSON
Senior Reporter

At the first session of the 159th annual General Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, members were commended for using the Book of Mormon, Another Testament of Jesus Christ and cautioned against the sin of pride by LDS Church President Ronald A. Taft Benson.

In his talk, read by President Gordon B. Hinckley, first counselor in the First Presidency, said, "The central theme of pride is enmity — enmity toward God and enmity toward our fellowman."

Enmity means "hatred toward, hostility to, or a state of opposition," President Benson. "The proud do not accept the authority of God and bring direction to their lives." The proud tend to "pit their perception of God against God's great knowledge, their abilities versus God's priesthood power, their accomplishments against his mighty works," he said. "The antidote to pride is humility — meekness and submissiveness," said President Benson.

"We can either choose to be humble or we can be compelled to be humble. We choose to be humble."

President Howard W. Hunter
President Hunter of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles spoke on miracles and testify after every winter's season there is the miracle of springtime and, in our personal journey through life as well as in nature." Members of the Church should learn to appreciate many miracles that are taken for granted. "Are not the greatest miracles the fact that we have life and limb and sight and touch in the first place?"

BYU Combined Choirs sing for Saturday afternoon session

LISA ANNE FULLER
and LAURA F. JONES
Universe Staff Writers

The BYU Combined Choirs provided music for the Saturday afternoon session of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints April 3 General Conference. Speakers at the session were Elders Dallin H. Oaks, Marvin J. Ashton, Ronald E. Poelman, James E. Faust and Bishop Glenn L. Pace.

Elder Dallin H. Oaks
Elder Oaks, a member of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles, said members of the LDS Church should learn to recognize and follow the voice of the Good Shepherd and not be distracted by alternate voices. Elder Oaks defined alternate voices as "those voices that speak of the will of his commandments and of the doctrines, ordinances and practices of his Church ... without calling on authority."

In a local setting, Church leaders have a responsibility to review material presented in classes and worship services to ensure that correct principles are being taught, Elder Oaks said.

Church leaders should also avoid involvement in events unauthorized by the LDS Church, such as symposia and panel discussions, where church doctrines are discussed.

If a representative of the Church participated in such an event, this would have the effect of encouraging church members to look to the sponsors of alternate voices to bring them information on the positions of the church," Elder Oaks said.

Bishop Glenn L. Pace
Bishop Pace, second counselor in the Presiding Bishopric, discussed the groups of critics of the Church: members, former members and recent members.

Bishop Pace said members should not get upset because of teasing and needless criticism from nonmembers. "My counsel to members would be to relax, lighten up, mellow out and don't get so huffy."

Satan's desire is to not only lead people away from the Church, but to create rebellion against it. However, if former members attack such beliefs they will lack credibility in the eyes of both members and nonmembers, he said.

Current members are more lethal than nonmembers or former members, according to Bishop Pace. Danger lies not in what may come from a member critic, but (in) that might become one," he said. Members should avoid inappropriate intellectualism and practicing selective obedience.

Elder Marvin J. Ashton
Elder Ashton, a member of the Quorum of the Twelve, said, "When Conference attenders eagerly wait in line on the temple grounds, hoping to get into a Saturday session. The weather made the long wait more pleasant this year, as people stood in a line that wrapped around Temple Square. The sun was visible most of the day.

Elder L. Tom Perry

According to Elder Perry, of the Quorum of the Twelve, "Most of the world's population still awaits the Gospel message."

There are two basic reasons why members of the Church are reluctant to share the Gospel: they are afraid, and they haven't prepared themselves properly.

The three messages that Church members need to prepare themselves to share are the purpose of life, the concept of eternal families and the divinity of Jesus Christ.

Elder Joseph B. Wirthlin

Elder Wirthlin, a member of the Quorum of the Twelve, told Church members to send their "roots deep into the soil of the Gospel."

"Rather than seeking ease, we must plant, cultivate and nourish within ourselves the seeds that will enable us to withstand the winds and heat of temptation, sin and evil," said Elder Wirthlin.

Elder Hugh W. Pinnock

"We must assume responsibility for our actions," said Elder Pinnock, a member of the presidency of the First Quorum of the Seventy. He enumerated four ways to take this responsibility. First, "you must want to change with all your heart;" second, follow the teachings of the living prophet; third, live the commandments; and fourth, help others when they really need burdens lifted.

Church expands in Europe

Missionaries enter East Germany

By PAMELA L. OLSEN
and MARTA NEILSON
Universe Staff Writers

Thursday morning, the first missionaries from The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints to serve in the German Democratic Republic in 50 years entered that country, said President Thomas S. Monson, second counselor in the First Presidency, at the Sunday morning session of the April 1989 General Conference.

He also said the first 10 young men and women from East Germany have been called to serve missions.

"The future (lies) before us. ... The long period of preparation is past."

The temple in Freiberg, East Germany, is small but busy — it's the only temple where one makes an appointment for an endowment session, he said.

President Gordon B. Hinckley Citing the growth of the LDS Church in the past eight years, President Hinckley, first counselor in the First Presidency, said, "The Church is moving forward because it is true. It is growing because there is a broadening love for that truth."

He compared love to the ever-constant North (or Polar) Star, and said it needs to be the guiding star of members' lives. "It is this love which is the great constant in all of our work."

President Hinckley said he felt optimistic about the world despite the many conflicts that exist; the drug problems, broken homes and hunger that plagues the earth. He said there is also peace among many nations and a new openness developing in the Soviet Union and People's Republic of China. "But the remarkable thing is that so many people care. More than at any time in the history of the world ..."

Elder Neal A. Maxwell Irony, the hard crust on the bread of adversity, can try both our faith and our patience, said Elder Maxwell, of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles.

Elder Maxwell quoted Mosiah 23:21: "Nevertheless the Lord seeth fit to chasten his people; yea, he trieth their patience and their faith."

This sobering declaration of divine purpose ought to keep us on the spiritual alert as to life's adversity. Often, "we see the best laid plans laid waste," said Elder Maxwell.

Irony may involve not only unexpected suffering, but also undeserved suffering. However, in coping with irony, as in all things, we have an exemplary teacher in Jesus. "For Jesus, irony began at birth," said Elder Maxwell. At the end, Jesus took of the bitter cup without becoming bitter.

Elder J. Richard Clarke An individual member may not be able to do all his genealogy or compilation of family records, but each can do something, said Elder Clarke, of the presidency of the First Quorum of the Seventy.

It is through research and temple work that forever families are possible, he said.

Each family should have as its highest priority the development of a "kindred family," Elder Clarke said. "If the kindred family were working as it could, our hearts would encompass each family member in need. He said the priesthood is the power that unites the family.

Satan has been attacking the family throughout the ages, he said. "Why do you suppose Satan is so obsessed with its dissolution? Because it stands for everything he wants and cannot have."

Elder Boyd K. Packer

Teen-agers sometimes wonder who they are, why they are and how they got where they are, said Elder Packer, a member of the Quorum of the Twelve.

Though parents were once teen-agers, they cannot promise that today's world will be a better place for today's teens. For example, there are temptations which exist now that were not invented years ago.

"I have faith that you young men and women can meet the world on its own terms and conquer it," said Elder Packer. He also warned teen-agers against the misuse of the power of creation and of Satan worship. "Don't you ever do that. You have no idea of the danger!" Young men and women may struggle through the teen-age years, but a glorious future awaits all who remain faithful.

Michigan to take on Seton Hall tonight in Finals

Associated Press
EATTLE — Steve Fisher has caught as much attention to the interim as he has to the Michigan basketball team he has been coaching for the past five games. The storybook career of interim — it's that word again — head coach Fisher ends tonight with the national championship game against Seton Hall regardless of the outcome. Game time is set for 7:13 p.m. The final game of the entire college basketball season is an unlikely place for an interim coach to be and, until this season, it was just as an unlikely place for a Seton Hall team to be. Fisher's story started 48 hours before the NCAA tournament began when Bill Frieder was fired by Michigan after agreeing to take over as the head coach at Arizona State next season. Then, the Wolverines have only not lost, but they have played their best basketball of the season and are best of any recent NCAA tournament.

Timing is everything and I jumped at the right time," Fisher said Sunday, adding that he will not talk to Michigan athletic director and football coach Bo Schembechler about the head coaching position until after the championship game. "We have not been lucky in the tournament the last six years. Balls bounced off instead of in. We've gotten lucky, but the players have put themselves in position to win games." The five victories included Saturday's breakneck 83-81 victory over Big Ten rival Illinois on a last-second rebound basket by Sean Higgins. The Wolverines' first success against the Fighting Illini this season in three meetings. Glen Rice led Michigan in scoring against Illinois with 28 points and he has 153 points in the tournament, 25 short of Bill Bradley's mark set with Princeton in 1965. Rice has shot 59.4 percent from the field, including a 22-for-37 mark from 3-point range. "I jumped on Glen Rice's back before the tournament and he's carried me this far," Fisher said. Seton Hall climbed up more than one notch in its semifinal victory over Duke. It was another disappointment for Duke, which has been to the Final Four more times than any school in history (seven) without winning a national championship. The Pirates trailed 26-8 12 minutes into the game, and they looked more like one of P.J. Carlesimo's early teams at the New Jersey school when it was common for them to be the doormat of the Big East Conference. "I think we're getting respect and that comes from the kids playing unselfishly," Carlesimo said. "Defense is a big part of our game and that is critical for us to be successful." The defense has especially shined for the Pirates in the second half of their five NCAA victories as no team has managed to shoot better than 40 percent in the second half. Center Ramon Ramos credits the team's depth with the second-half success. "I don't think we do anything consciously about playing better defense in the second half," he said. "We have a real deep bench and they keep us fresh. When guys come in they keep the same intensity and we're fresh when we come back in." Seton Hall reserves have outscored the opponents' subs 98-36 in the tournament. "It's not unusual during a game to see more starters on the bench than on the floor," Carlesimo said. "We also know we can spread the scoring around because we have guys who can score 20 points one night and five the next but they still contribute."

BYU netters squeak by Cal-State Hayward

MICHELLE HALES
Universe Sports Writer

The BYU men's tennis team defeated California State Hayward University 5-4 in Hayward, Calif., Friday. This gives the Cougars a 4-8 record overall. "We knew we were in for a battle," BYU Coach Jim Osborne said. "It was a very close match." The Cougars were tied 3-3 when they went into doubles. Cougar Sean Morrison, playing at No. 1 position in place of injured captain Dave Harkness, defeated Manoj Kashyap 6-4, 6-1. His teammates George Chingas and Greg Skollar earned the other Cougar singles points. Chingas defeated Bob Fenton 6-4, 6-1 at the No. 4 spot and Skollar's match was retired in the first set at John Mattice was defeated by Eric Gibson 6-4, 6-0 at the No. 2 spot. The BYU freshman Andrew Shepherd was defeated by Tom Edwards 6-4, 6-4 and Brian Hardin was defeated by Ray Bilsey 6-2, 6-3. Each of the doubles teams were moved up a spot due to Harkness' injury.

"I was very proud of the doubles teams," Osborne said. "They really came through for us."

The Cougars found themselves in another tie when Morrison and Chingas lost the No. 1 match to Kashyap and Fenton 6-7(8-6), 6-4, 6-2 and Sheppert and Gabe Pate won their match against Bilsey and Mike Levensal 6-4, 6-4.

"It all came down to the last doubles match," Osborne said.

Skollar and Hardin took three sets to win their match. They defeated Edwards and Jacobson 7-6(7-2), 3-6, 6-4.

The BYU women's tennis team was defeated by 7th-ranked University of Miami in Gainesville, Fla., Friday. "Miami is a very fine team," BYU Coach Ann Valentine said. "We were very flat."

Valentine also cited windy conditions as a factor to the loss.

"The conditions were very windy," Valentine said. "Miami is used to the wind and we aren't."

The Cougar's sole point came from their 15th-ranked doubles team. Junior Mary Beth Young and All-American senior Michelle Taylor defeated 25th ranked Erika Winston and Jami Yonekura 7-6, 6-1 at the No. 1 doubles position.

All-American senior Susanna Lee was defeated at the No. 1 singles spot by 27th-ranked Jennifer Young 6-2, 6-3 while 14th-ranked Young was defeated by Elizabeth Levinson 6-4, 6-0.

Taylor, ranked 38th, was defeated by 52nd-ranked Kerri Reiter 6-3, 6-2 while Anna Funderburk was defeated by Yonekura 6-2, 6-2 and Maddy Diekmann lost to Winston 6-1, 6-1.

Patti Urban, playing at the No. 6 spot, was the only Cougar to win a set. She was defeated by Gail Gibson 4-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Urban teamed up with Lee to play another three-setter in doubles. They were defeated by Levinson and Young 3-6, 7-5, 6-3 while their teammates, Funderburk and Sheri Yandle, were defeated by Reiter and Gibson 6-2, 6-1.

Out of five games played on their nine day road trip, this was the 11th-ranked Cougar's third loss. All three losses were to top ten teams.

With those losses BYU now owns an 18-5 record.

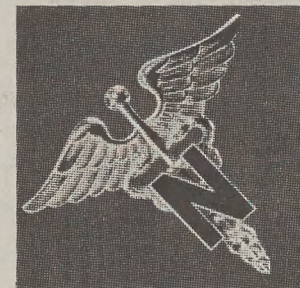

THEY SAID IT

"See what happens when Frieder leaves. He was a good coach, but he was a loser for leaving right before the tournament started. But, his departure provided the spark for the team to make it to the finals."

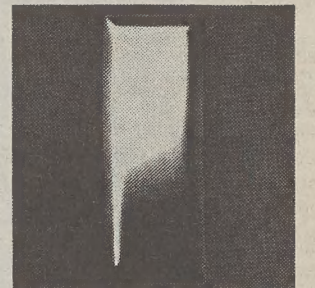

-Shaune Pasche, a junior from the University of Michigan, in reference to Michigan's regular season coach taking a job at Arizona State University and being replaced by interim Coach Steve Fisher, who has led Michigan to the NCAA Finals.

derful opportunity for him, and I think he will do a fabulous job. I'm happy to see him continue his work in the Church."

Tim Adair, executive vice-president of BYUSA, said, "People are going to start to think it's a tradition for BYU presidents to go on and become general authorities."

University officials had not been informed about any administrative changes at press time.

Fusion experiments help focus attention on research in Utah

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — Just as the first implant of an artificial heart did seven years ago, the claim of controlled nuclear fusion at the University of Utah has focused attention on the state's premier research center.

But this time, perhaps mindful of the faded promise of the mechanical heart, Utah's politicians and educators are sparing no effort to ensure the state remains a front-runner in, as one put it, "the cold fusion game."

The parallels between development of the artificial heart and nuclear fusion aren't lost on university President Chase Peterson, who chaired the institution's medical school when surgeon William DeVries first implanted the plastic and metal pump in a human being in 1982.

"Once in a blue moon, institutions get projects which have some kind of enormous significance," Peterson said Friday. "But the artificial heart had a one-person impact ... whereas feasible fusion would have a planetary impact. That's the dimension that's significant."

For three decades, thousands of scientists have spent millions of dollars trying to corral what many consider the most perfect source of energy possible, an environmentally benign power fueled by "heavy" hydrogen that occurs naturally in water.

Last week, chemistry professor B. Stanley Pons and Martin Fleischmann, of the University of Southampton in England, announced they had achieved sustained, controlled nuclear fusion in a simple experiment conceived during a hike in the mountains and first tested in Pons' kitchen.

But even after months of research, neither Pons nor Fleischmann can say exactly why their process — a glass flask with a palladium rod and platinum cylinder immersed in a solution of deuterium oxide — produces four times the energy applied by an electrical current.

Large percentage of inmates rearrested

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Nearly 63 percent of the inmates released from state prisons are rearrested for a serious crime within 3 years, according to a Justice Department study.

The department's Bureau of Justice Statistics examined the criminal records of more than 16,000 men and women who were among 109,000 offenders released from the prisons of 11 states in 1983.

It found that by the end of 1986, about 62.5 percent of the former inmates had been rearrested for a felony or serious misdemeanor, that 47 percent had been convicted of a new crime and that 41 percent had been sent back to prison or jail.

Acting Bureau Director Joseph M. Bessette said the report, released late Sunday, represented "the most comprehensive and detailed ... recidivism study ever conducted."

It tracked the records of people released from prisons in California, Florida, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon and Texas.

According to projections from the sample — with a margin of error of plus or minus 1 percent — about 68,000 of the 109,000 people released in those states were rearrested within 3 years and charged with 326,000 new crimes, including 2,300 homicides, 17,000 robberies, 36,000 burglaries and 46,000 drug offenses.

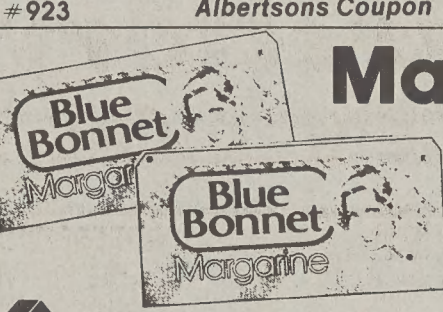

Before their 1983 release, the inmates averaged more than 12 criminal charges each, and almost two-thirds had served previous jail or prison sentences. The bureau estimated that the prisoners released in the 11 states — representing more than half of those released nationwide — had been charged with a total of 1.7 million serious crimes throughout their lifetimes. About 265,000 of those were violent crimes.

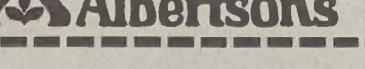

Recidivism rates were highest for young prisoners and those with extensive prior records. An estimated 68 percent of those younger than 25 at the time of their release were rearrested within 3 years, compared to 40 percent for those 45 or older. Almost 79 percent of the former inmates with 11 or more previous arrests were rearrested, compared to 38 percent for first-time offenders.

Pres. Benson receives high honor

President Ezra Taft Benson receives the Bronze Wolf at the priesthood session of General Conference on Saturday.

By LANE WILLIAMS
Universe Staff Writer

President Ezra Taft Benson received the International Boy Scouts of America's highest award, the Bronze Wolf, at Saturday evening's priesthood session of the 159th Semi-annual General Conference of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

President Benson received the award from three international scouting officials. "May the Lord bless you," said President Benson to the executives and two Bountiful Eagle Scouts while receiving the award. "And may the devil miss you."

President Benson's counselors, President Gordon B. Hinckley and President Thomas S. Monson, addressed the congregation along with Elder Richard G. Scott of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles, Elder Russell C. Taylor, the first man to be appointed to the new Second Quorum of the Seventy, and Elder John H. Groberg, a member of the First Quorum of the Seventy also spoke.

President Gordon B. Hinckley
President Hinckley was the session's concluding speaker. He tied President Benson's award to the scout's traditional oath and suggested a new one for all of the Church's priesthood holders: "On my honor I will do my best to magnify the priesthood of God which has been conferred upon me."

The duty of all priesthood holders is to "magnify their callings" by enthusiastically fulfilling their callings, President Hinckley said. "This work has not reached its present stature through indifference on the part of those who have labored in its behalf."

The life of early Church leader Oliver Cowdery, who fell away from the Church for more than a decade, is indicative of what happens when a person chooses to magnify their callings and then chooses not to, according to President Hinckley. "So long as he magnified his calling, he was magnified. When he diminished that calling, he shrank to oblivion and poverty."

"When we magnify our calling, we enlarge the potential of our priesthood when we reach out to those in distress and give strength to those who falter."

President Thomas S. Monson
President Monson told the assembly to work for their greatest potential and to hope for miracles. "Tonight, as I look at you young men and realize who you are and what you may become, I say to you, as (a) lawyer said to (the Charles Dickens character) Pip, 'My boy, you have great expectations ... and great things are expected of you.'"

President Monson recounted the story of Randall Ellsworth, a missionary who survived a devastating Ellsworth did. Later, Ellsworth's mission president challenged him to throw away the canes, which Ellsworth did.

President Monson showed the audience one of the canes, which the mission president gave to him.

"To me, it serves as a silent witness of our Heavenly Father's ability to hear our prayers and to bless our lives."

Elder Richard G. Scott
Elder Scott encouraged members to have a spiritual flame capable of helping others.

"The spiritual flame in some is easily quenched by the world around them. Yet, others live so as to be strengthened and nurtured by the Lord. They not only overcome the temptations of the world, their unquenchable spirit enriches the lives of others around them."

Elders John Groberg and Russell Taylor

Elder Groberg counseled members to grow closer to the Lord by learning the true spirit of the sacrament. "Think of what could and should happen ... if every Sunday individuals ... under the authority of the priesthood of God took the sacrament worthily and thus repented and determined sincerely to better follow the guidance of the Lord's Spirit."

Elder Taylor spoke to the younger members of the congregation and encouraged them to be winners at the game of life.

"You make points when you serve a mission, draw close to the Lord, live the Word of Wisdom, stay morally clean and live a life of service and Church activity."

Who Should Attend

The conference is designed not only for women of all ages and situations in life but also for men - brothers, sons, husbands, and fathers. Since many of the problems facing women are shared by men, it is important that together we explore solutions. We especially invite both women and men and students (including jr. and sr. high) to attend the free Thursday evening fireside with Sister Julia N. Mavimbela.
